The Swedish Experiment in Family Politics

Allan C. Carlson 2024-12-06 This devastating account of the work of Gunnar and Alva Myrdal is a monumental case study in the uses and abuses of social science. It portrays how these two young scholars used the power of ideas to help engineer a new domestic order in Sweden. The book focuses on the Myrdals' unique fusion of socialism and feminism with nationalism and pro-nationalism in their joint 1934 book, Crisis in the Population Question turning the issue of Sweden's declining birthrate into "the most effective argument for a radical socialist remodeling of society." The author uses interviews with many of the figures involved and extensive archival research (including restricted materials held by Sweden's Social Democratic Party) to weave an uncommonly personal account of triumphant social engineering. The work of the Myrdals covered every major area of family policy and planning from a marriage loan program to maternity relief. Using theories and research of a then new science of demography, the Myrdals did not so much demonstrate the interpretation of facts and values as blue the distinction between them in order to insinuate ideological claims and policy mandates. Carlson provides careful historical documentation of social welfare and policy in Sweden, indicating the uneven path to the brave new "middle way."

There was renewed emphasis on domesticity and traditionalism in the 1950s, and only in the 1980s was the Myrdal "revolution" truly completed. For Carlson that revolution was less a tribute to the Myrdals' perspicacity than to a concurrence of circumstances: weak and inconsistent data, confusion over cause and effect, and avoidance of controls in experimental settings. Swedish experiments in marriage and family yielded a variety of results: a triumph of feminism over socialism; of reason over tradition, central government over regionalism, urban multi-family dwellings over suburban single family models, the therapeutic over the moral; and finally the state over the family. Because the Swedish "model" is widely regarded and emulated, this critique is of immediate significance. It offers the general reader remarkable insight into the nature of Scandinavian social life; and to the specialist in demography, economy, and sociology, a perspective on how social science can become itself the problem rather than provide solutions in contemporary post-industrial life. Allan Carlson is president of the Rockford Institute, and a member of the National Commission on Children. He is the author of Family Questions: Reflections on the American Social Crisis. The Publishers' Trade List Annual 1985 Dissertation Abstracts International 1998 The Official Washington Post Index 1988 Assisted Living Administration and Management Study Guide 2026-2027 Apex Credential Press The Administrator's License Isn't Just a Certificate—It's Your Key to Leading a $70 Billion Industry Picture this: You're responsible for the safety, dignity, and quality of life for 50+ seniors. Their families trust you. Your staff looks to you for guidance. State regulators scrutinize your every decision. And tomorrow morning, you're taking the NAB RC/AL examination—the single barrier between you and the title "Licensed Administrator." Are you ready? Most candidates aren't. They walk into Pearson VUE with scattered notes, outdated study materials, and a prayer. They've memorized regulations but can't apply them. They understand budgets but freeze on infection control questions. They know resident rights but stumble on medication management scenarios. Here's what separates administrators who pass from those who don't: systematic preparation across all five domains of practice. This guide isn't another textbook. It's your personal examination coach, regulatory consultant, and confidence builder—all in one focused resource designed for the 2026-2027 NAB testing cycle. What You're Really Getting: Not lectures. Not theory. Not academic fluff. You're getting 600+ questions that think like the NAB exam thinks. Scenarios pulled from real administrative challenges: the midnight fall, the family complaint, the staffing crisis, the surprise inspection, the budget shortfall, the medication error, the COVID outbreak. Each question teaches you to reason like an administrator, not just recall like a student. Here's How This Guide Rewires Your Brain: DOMAIN 1: RESIDENT CARE & QUALITY OF LIFE You'll master the assessment-to-service-plan pipeline. Not just what goes in an ISP, but why certain language protects you legally. Not just ADL definitions, but how to spot the difference between appropriate assistance and over-servicing that burns families financially. The dementia care section doesn't just list behaviors—it teaches you to distinguish sundowning from UTI delirium, wandering from elopement risk, resistance from abuse. These distinctions determine whether you implement behavior interventions or call 911. DOMAIN 2: HUMAN RESOURCES & ORGANIZATIONAL MANAGEMENT Staffing ratios. Training hours. Background checks. Orientation checklists. Boring? Only if you've never been cited for inadequate supervision or watched a quality employee quit because onboarding was chaos. This chapter converts HR compliance from a regulatory burden into your competitive advantage. You'll learn how top administrators use training documentation to defend against wrongful termination claims, how scheduling strategies reduce overtime costs by 30%, and why your employee handbook is your first line of defense in litigation. DOMAIN 3: FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT & MARKETING The exam wants you to understand occupancy rate calculations, budget variance analysis, and accounts receivable aging. But here's the secret: These aren't accounting questions. They're survival questions. Can you explain to your board why occupancy dropped from 94% to 87%? Can you justify adding a second medication aide when labor costs are already 62% of revenue? Can you calculate the break-even point for your new memory care wing? If not, you're not ready to be an administrator. You're ready to be unemployed. DOMAIN 4: ENVIRONMENT & SAFETY Fire drills. Evacuation plans. Emergency generators. Disaster preparedness. Everyone nods through these sections until the tornado warning, the gas leak, or the pandemic. This guide drills you on the difference between fire watch and fire alarm systems, between evacuation-in-place and total evacuation, between disaster drills and actual emergency response. You'll learn what "defensible space" means in a wildfire zone and why your sprinkler system inspection date matters to surveyors. DOMAIN 5: LEADERSHIP, GOVERNANCE & REGULATORY COMPLIANCE This is where administrators are made or broken. State regulations. Federal oversight. Medicaid waiver requirements. Licensure renewal deadlines. Incident reporting timelines. Complaint investigation procedures. You'll memorize nothing. Instead, you'll learn where to find answers fast, how to interpret vague regulatory language, and when to call your attorney versus handling issues internally. The section on disclosure requirements alone could save you from a $50,000 lawsuit. The admission/retention/discharge criteria chapter will prevent you from accepting a resident you legally cannot serve. The Practice Exam Architecture: Four full-length tests. Not random question dumps—carefully calibrated simulations. Test 1 establishes your baseline. Take it diagnostic. See where you're strong (probably clinical care) and weak (probably financial management). Test 2 targets your gaps. Weighted toward domains where Test 1 exposed vulnerabilities. Test 3 simulates exam-day conditions. Timed. No breaks. No notes. Just you and 100 questions that feel harder than they should because now you're managing time pressure. Test 4 is your confidence builder. Slightly easier. Confirms you're ready. Sends you into Pearson VUE knowing you've seen harder questions than what you'll face. Who This Guide Actually Serves: □ Activity Directors tired of being passed over for administrator promotions □ Nurses transitioning from clinical roles to facility leadership □ Business Professionals entering senior care from hospitality or healthcare □ Family Members who managed a loved one's care and discovered their calling □ Failed Test-Takers who need a complete restart, not just review What This Career Actually Delivers: □ $65,000-$95,000 base salary (higher in metro markets, memory care, continuing care) □ Bonus structures tied to occupancy, quality metrics, employee retention □ Prestige in a growing industry with 1.2 million current residents and aging Boomers □ Stability even recessions don't stop people from aging □ Autonomy you run the building What Failure Actually Costs: The NAB doesn't publish pass rates, but industry whispers suggest 40-50% fail first attempts. That's not because they're unqualified. It's because they're unprepared. Each failure costs you: $425 exam fee (non-refundable) 90-day waiting period before retesting Lost job offers (many positions require licensure within 90 days of hire) Erosion of confidence (the second attempt is psychologically harder) Opportunity cost (three months at $75K salary = $18,750 in lost income) The Reality Nobody Tells You: Getting licensed is the easy part. Staying licensed while managing family complaints, staff turnover, regulatory surveys, budget pressures, and the moral weight of caring for society's most vulnerable—that's the real test. This guide prepares you for both. Not just to pass an exam. To lead with competence, clarity, and the confidence that comes from genuinely understanding your profession. A Different Kind of Guarantee: We can't guarantee you'll pass. That's on you—your commitment, your study discipline, your test-day focus. But we guarantee this: If you work through every chapter, answer every practice question, and analyze every rationale, you will walk into that testing center prepared. Not hoping. Not guessing. Not praying. Prepared. One Last Thing: The seniors in your future facility don't care about your exam score. They care whether you'll advocate for them when family isn't visiting. Whether you'll investigate their complaint about cold dinner trays. Whether you'll hire enough staff to answer call lights promptly. Whether you'll create a community where dignity isn't a policy—it's a practice. Your license is how you prove you're qualified to do that work. This guide is how you earn that license. Click "Buy Now" and start preparing like your future residents are watching. Because in a few months, they will be.

The Intuitive Practitioner Terry Atkinson 2000 This volume investigates, both conceptually and empirically, the role of intuition in professional practice and its significance for professional development, especially within the world of education. The relationship between rationale or explicit ways of knowing and learning and inarticulate, intuitive or implicit ones is explored in the context of professional practice and development. The tendency to interpret reflection solely in terms of articulation is questioned and the value of other forms of reflection is reasserted. The working relationship between reason and intuition is illustrated in a variety of case studies in distinctive educational and professional settings. From this reassessment of intuition, practical lessons for the initial training and continuing professional development of educators and others are highlighted and extracted.
