A Comprehensive Approach to Chinese Grammatical Error

Correction in Second Language Learning Jing Wang 2024-09-26 This book introduces an automatic grammatical error correction model on sentence-level based on deep learning. For the first time in error correction tasks, native Chinese corpus (literary works) and sentence classification information (acceptable or unacceptable) were incorporated into the Transformer model for training. Previous research often overlooked the significant impact of native language information on error correction. Experiments demonstrated a substantial improvement in model accuracy, increasing from 9.7% to 48% with the inclusion of native corpus and classification information.

Special Problems in Corrections Jeffrey Ian Ross 2008 Sets out to identify the most pressing issues affecting the correctional system today. Maintaining a solutions-focus, the book organizes problems into two distinct categories: those impacting the convicts and correctional facilities and those impacting the correctional officers and administrators. It examines long-standing, and emerging issues from a critical perspective, grounding discussion in empirical research and current events. Using the consistent voice of a single author, the book offers a no nonsense approach to explaining the problems of correctional officers, correctional managers, prisoners, and the public.
