Educational strategies have evolved over the years, due to research breakthroughs and the application of technology. By using the latest learning innovations, curriculum and instructional design can be enhanced and strengthened. The Handbook of Research on Driving STEM Learning With Educational Technologies is an authoritative reference source for the latest scholarly research on the implementation and use of different techniques of instruction in modern classroom settings. Featuring exhaustive coverage on a variety of topics including data literacy, student motivation, and computer-aided assessment, this resource is an essential reference publication ideally designed for academicians, researchers, and professionals seeking current research on emerging uses of technology for STEM education.

Computer Assisted and Open Access Education Fred Percival 1995

Tutorial, Computer System Requirements Kenneth J. Thurber 1980 This tutorial developed over a number of years, during an engineering career wherein the author encountered 'systems design' that appeared to contain no design whatsoever. Regardless of design goals, processes, or requirements, it appeared that in corporate America, it was the job of marketing departments to designate the requirements satisfied by the end product. This collection of articles presents a straw man strategy to help avoid ad-hoc designs, and to answer the questions and develop the ideas that lead to concrete, a-priori requirements for systems design.
