The Unofficial Guide to Collecting Antiques Sonia Weiss 2000-08-15 The inside scoop... for when you want more than the official line! Only a few years ago, "antiquing" seemed to be only for the wealthy. Then came the Internet, with its profusion of Web sites, bulletin boards, and online auctions. Almost overnight, "antiquing" has become a much-loved hobby of the people! But with more antiquing choices than ever before, novice and experienced collectors have been left reeling. That's why when it comes to such key questions as where to hunt, how to appraise, and when to sell your own antiques, you can't rely on advice from 101 semi-objective sources. You need one dependable, clued-in source of antiquing wisdom. You want the inside scoop. The Unofficial Guide™ to Collecting Antiques is designed to give savvy consumers like you a foolproof appraisal of everything from where to find the best prices to sizing up value and seeing through fakes. In this book you'll get unbiased recommendations that are not influenced by any company, product, or organization. The Unofficial Guide™ to Collecting Antiques is intensively inspected by The Unofficial Panel of Experts: John Coker has been dealing antiques for nearly 30 years and has been a guest appraiser on PBS's "Treasures in Your Attic"; former art history professor and museum curator James Kettlewell deals in fine arts and antiques; and Art Maier is an appraiser with William Doyle Galleries. These specialists ensure that you are armed with the most up-to-date insider information on the subject of antique collecting and are told exactly what "the Official establishment" doesn't want you to know. Vital Information on tapping into the vast array of collecting outlets available today—from classic venues to the Internet Insider Secrets on identifying antique periods and styles Money-Saving Techniques on how to find hidden treasures amidst flea markets and second-hand stores Time-Saving Tips on mastering the world of online antiques collecting The Latest Trends in smart selling of your own antiques—from wise timing to the pros and cons of trading over selling Handy Checklists and Charts for tracking your growing collection... and finding the country's best auctions and shows visit us on-line at www.idgbooks.com

Systems: Planning guidelines United States. Defense Civil Preparedness Agency 1977

City Guide USA Web Directory Bryan Hiquet 1996 A time-saving state-by-state and city-by-city guide for business travelers, visitors, and local residents, this book/CD-ROM package contains comprehensive descriptions of thousands of travel-related Web site listings.

The Insiders' Guide to Denver Sally Stich 1999-06 In nearly 400 pages, the Mile High City becomes larger than life with vivid, detailed descriptions of its culinary delights and popular shopping destinations, its ever-growing arts community, its diverse accommodations, its fascinating history and, of course, its endless recreational pursuits. Local authors Stich and Miller have also included an indispensable section for newcomers and residents.

The Cost-Conscious Home-Buyer's Guide Jane White 1991-01-16 During the last decade, something happened to the American dream of homeownership—it became too-high priced in the major coastal cities for many middle and even upper-class Americans to afford. Jane White takes you to twenty metropolitan markets you can afford and, in the process, tells you how to get there. Following an introductory chapter explaining how housing became unaffordable in this country, she takes you to places where the prices are still reasonable, such as Baltimore, Houston, Miami, Philadelphia, Orlando, Sacramento, and Tampa. White then goes on to explain how to move on your own, what types of homes are available, and how to buy insurance and shop for that all-important mortgage.

Winning Global Markets Philip Kotler 2014-08-06 A new marketing paradigm focuses on the concentrated economic power of 600 global cities. City-Centered Marketing: Why Local is the Future of Global Business is a compelling practical analysis of a new direction of marketing within the context of intensifying urbanization and the shift of global economy from West to East. Philip Kotler, one of the world's foremost marketing experts, and his brother Milton, an international marketing strategist, explain why the future of marketing must focus on top global cities and their metro regions, and not squandered resources on small cities. Marketing is city-centered activity. 600 global cities will contribute 65 percent of the global GDP of $67 trillion by 2025. The top 100 cities will contribute 25 percent of GDP, and 440 of these top 600 cities will be in the developing world. Top cities have to improve their marketing prowess in compete for the right companies and settling on the best terms. By 2025, the vast majority of consuming and middle-income households will be in developing regions. While New York, Los Angeles, and Chicago will remain major players because of high per-capita GDP and capital and intellectual assets, companies will pay more attention to growing city regions in the developing world. Multinational businesses must change the culture of their headquarters, divisions and branches, as well as their value chain stakeholders to take advantage of these market changes. The book details the strategies for sustainable growth with topics like: Resource allocation in developed versus developing city markets Shifting the focus to city regions instead of central governments The rise of new multinational corporations from developing economies Declining consumer and business growth in developed cities Cities in China, Brazil, India, and throughout the Middle East and Latin America are rising to become major players in the global marketplace. Philip and Milton Kotler argue that an inversion is taking place, and top cities are growing economically faster than their national rate of growth. These emerging city markets are critical to company growth , and City-Centered Marketing: Why Local is the Future of Global Business provides the vital information and guidelines that companies need to plan accordingly.
